

Victim Support – Summary of the most important issues

01 What is victim support?

Victim Support is a statutory assistance. It is provided by the State in solidarity with the victims of violent acts.

02 Who is eligible for victim support?

You are entitled to victim support if you have been physically, sexually or mentally affected through a criminal offence.

Victim support is activated, for example in cases of: assault, homicide, rape, sexual assault, serious threats, coercion or deprivation of liberty.

Your relatives, such as your spouse or your children or others close to you, also have the right to victim support.

03 What entitlement do you have as a victim?

Legal aid

Employees of the victim support centres inform you about assistance for victims and they support you in processing of the crime. If necessary, they arrange for experts and accompany you if possible to interviews in criminal proceedings if you so wish.

The advice is free, confidential and can also be anonymous. Translation assistance can be provided for the counselling.

For victim counselling centres in Canton Zurich, there are various addresses in the annexe. For access to victim counselling centres in other cantons see www.opferhilfe-schweiz.ch.

Financial assistance

Should you need further professional help in addition to that received in a counselling centre, under certain circumstances the costs can be carried entirely or partially by the victim support (eg. legal fees, therapy costs).

You are entitled to compensation, if you are unable to work as a consequence of the crime and suffer loss of income. In the case of homicides, the dependents are entitled to compensation for funeral expenses.

You are entitled to compensation, in the form of damages if you have been affected seriously and long-term as a consequence of the criminal offence.

Victim counselling centres will inform you about your claims and assist you in submitting a request for financial assistance.

Please note the following:

- The entitlement to financial support depends on your financial circumstances. Compensation is not included.
- Financial assistance to victims is only awarded when neither insurance (eg. accident insurance) nor the perpetrator reimburse for the damage/injury.
- Victim support is only for damages that you can prove and that are associated with violence. Damaged property (eg, stolen goods, torn clothes, etc.) cannot be financed by victim support centres.
- Applications for reimbursement and compensation have to be submitted within 5 years of the crime, in the canton where the scene took place. More information can be obtained from the victim counselling centres.

Applications for financial services in the canton of Zurich should be submitted to the address: Kantonale Opferhilfestelle, Postfach, 8090 Zurich.

For authorities concerned with compensation in other cantons, please see www.opferhilfe-schweiz.ch.

04 Protection and rights in criminal proceedings

As a victim in criminal proceedings, you are entitled to special rights to information, protection and participation. Victims of sexual offences and minors have special rights of protection. Both the police and the victim counselling centres inform you with regard to your rights in criminal proceedings.
